Tutoring Experience

In my 14 years as an educator, I've had the opportunity to teach a wide variety of students, helping them improve their understanding of English Literature and Language. My focus has always been on fostering students' analytical skills and guiding them through the process of constructing well-reasoned essays and arguments.

I've worked extensively with students in IB and IGCSE English, supporting them through their academic journey. My experience includes preparing students for internal and external assessments, with many of my students achieving top marks and progressing to competitive university programs.
